

Contents

[Special Issue]

Survival in the Digital Age: How Mobile Apps are Changing Our Lives in Chinese Society and Communities

Guest Editors

Ming Xie, Ph.D., West Texas A&M University
Chin-Chung Chao, Ph.D., University of Nebraska at Omaha

More than We Chat: Examining WeChat Users' Vaccine-Related Health Information Seeking During the COVID-19 Pandemic	1
Li Chen, Yafei Zhang, Ge Zhu
Tik Tok and Microcelebrities: An Analysis of the Impact of Short Video Apps on Chinese Culture and Communication	23
Ping Yang
Mobile Apps for Flood Emergency Management in China: Functionality, Usefulness, and Coproduction	38
Minshuai Ding
Understanding the Moderation Effects of Age and Gender on the Relationship between Street-Level Bureaucrats' Social Media Use and Perceived Administration Burden: Evidence from China	67
Suyang Yu, Yang Zheng, Zelin Xue
Using WeChat to Communicate with Chinese Exchange Students	84
Mei Zhang
Digital Feminism: Social Media Portrayal of Housewives and “蕾神之锤” in Chinese Society	101
Ming Xie, Chin-Chung Chao	